From the minister:

During the year and two months since September, 1974 we have welcomed 18 people into church membership. In addition we have recognized a new category of membership for those who spend their summers in our area but have a primary church membership elsewhere. What does membership in a Unitarian Universalist Church mean? Primarily it means commitment to the idea of a religious community within which people are free to work out their own beliefs in association with others and, having worked them out, to apply them to their personal lives and to the communities of which they are a part. Our church needs the support and participation of all its members and friends. The best publicity is when one person tells another about his church with enthusiasm and understanding. If you can do that for our church, you will help us to grow, and what is more you will grow in the process.
